Does this financial service provider provide independent advice?

Independent advice about products must meet two conditions.

Insurance.

Condition 1: compare enough insurance policies.

This financial service provider does not meet this condition because we have made a pre-selection based on quality. We do not recommend products with limited coverage and (too) low prices.

Condition 2: not exclusively insurance from affiliated providers.

This financial service provider meets this condition.

Why should you choose this financial service provider?

We offer extensive personal guidance during the advice, the application and afterwards. When selecting insurers for disability insurance, we take the quality of service and product features into account more than a possible competitive price.

What do you pay to this financial service provider?

You will only find average prices here. The average price is the price that customers pay in a comparable situation. The more complex your financial situation, the more you usually pay. Your financial service provider will inform you about the exact price. Always have agreements recorded, so that you know what the financial service provider does for you and how much you pay for it. Nu

	Consumer.	Entrepreneur.	Otherwise.
Providing advice and arranging a contract.	€475	€750	€750
Only arrange contract.	€275	€550	€550
Only giving advice.	€375	€650	€650

These are average costs. The final costs may differ from this. Agreements about this are made in advance.

If you arrange a contract without advice, you take the knowledge and experience test*. You choose the product yourself. This means that you assess for yourself – without the help of an advisor – whether the product is suitable for your situation.

The knowledge and experience test is a mandatory test for many financial products. In the test you answer questions about the product and the risks associated with the product. This way you can see whether you know enough about the risks. The outcome of the test helps you to assess whether it is responsible to arrange a contract without advice.

What can this financial service provider do for you in the future?

If your personal situation changes, always return to a financial service provider. Due to these changes, the insurance may no longer suit your situation. For example, because your family situation or income changes. Then you may pay too much or run more risk than you want.

You can always contact a financial service provider for an orientation meeting. Is there an important change in your insurance?

The financial service provider or provider will then contact you without you paying for it.

Does this financial service provider also offer maintenance services? 1

You pay an amount for maintenance services via a subscription, fixed rate or hourly rate.

For more information about other services in the future, visit the website of your financial service provider www.eq-riskmanagement.nl

1 With maintenance services, a financial service provider can monitor with you whether there are changes that require an adjustment to your insurance.
